THURSDAY MORNING, FEB. 28.

ing, several acts lately passed, which say that he favored it in a mild way. regard as having a very important bearing on the development of the re-sources of our State, especially the particularly the Kanawha Valley. The ment under the bill. We quote as fol first and most important feature of the scheme, is the act providing for the imscheme, is the act providing for the improvement of the Great Kanawha river from its mouth up to the Great Falls, a distance of 94 miles, so as to make it navigable all the year round. When this is done, it follows as a matter of course, and in a short time, too, that the tributaries of that river, such as the Coal, the Elk, the Pocotalico, Gauley, New and Greenbrier, will be improved in the same way, the object being to open up and bring into market their vast coal, mineral and timber lands.

This dovernor said there were two The Governor said, there were the Constitution, and the Constitution, the Constitutio

The present situation in the Kanawha Valley is not unlike that of the Mothat project that has suggested the same should the Southern cities and towns be supplied with coal from away up the Monongahela, if they can be supplied cheaper by developing fields much nearer to them? This is the question that Eastern capitalists have been called to consider for years past. And a number of them are now going torry and effect a satisfactory answer to it. They have seen that during the last year upwards of forty-two million bushels of coal were brought down the Monongahela and carried to Cincinnati, Louisville and the South, when the Ohlo was at flood tide. They have also seen that it was owing to 84 miles of artificial navigation, accomplished at a cost of nearly one million of dollars, that the coal was thus reached in the Monongahela Valley and brought into margahela Valley and brought into mar-000, and that the company were enabled to declare a net dividend of 10 per cent. And still more important than all these Monongahela conl fields have increased in value from 10 to 500 dollars per acre. In view of these facts it is not strange that attention has been turned toward the development of a region which, while it is in some respects similar in its situation to the Monongahela valley, has characteristics far more attractive and important in their relations and bearings. We look upon the uiti-mates of the Karawha improvement as comprehending the attainment of that magnificent idea so long and so hope-lessly cherished in the old State in connection with the James river and Kanawha Canal. And two of the acts which we print to-day in connection with this charter to the Kanawha company, show that it is the intention of capitalists at no distant day to realize that idea. Throughout the present session of the Richmond Legislature the absorbing question, even amid their throats, and no law over them but the edge of the sword!" nection with the James river and Ka-nawha Canal. And two of the acts absorbing question, even amid their political distractions, has been the conolidation of all the Virginia railsolidation of all the Virginia railroads into one manmoth company, under one management, with a view of securing an Ohlo river terminus, and by that means draining the Ohlo and Mississippi valleys of their products and transporting them to Norfolk or Newport News, and thence direct to Europe and other quarters of the world.
Had Virginia never been cursed with slavery, such a through line of rail and slavery, such a through line of rail and uld long ago have been built, and Norfolk or Newport News would have been a great city, rivaling perhaps, New York. But its accomplishment now is more than ever a necessity to Virginia, and while the results can never be what they might have become, yet a future will follow that no man can estimate at this time. The Virginia can estimate at this time. The Virginia is the natural sea-board of the state of things were reversed:

One of the first indirect effects of the Kanawha improvement will be to insure, as we think, the building of the dispatch to the Baltimore Sun, in rewhen the control of the second protected because they could not be clearling the "manifest tendency" of the situation for some time, and a move or two of a counter character has already been made up the Valleyof Virginia with a view to a connection with the Central railroad by way of the Manassas Gap route. Another movement in the same direction is indicated in an act recently passed by our legislature providing for a road from the Shenandoah to the Kanawha Valley, which will be a natural connection for the Baltimore and Ohio, and one that it will be forced to make in order to protect Baltimore trade.

All these are some of the results to which we look forward in connection with the pioneer movements now in contemplation in the Kanawha Valley.
